Madison attorney Brynne McBride honored for helping families access health care

MADISON, Wis. (May 6, 2026) — Madison attorney Brynne McBride has spent more than two decades helping families navigate complex health coverage systems—often at moments when access to care can determine outcomes.

McBride, chief operating officer of ABC for Health, has been named the State Bar of Wisconsin's 2026 Dan Tuchscherer Outstanding Public Interest Law Attorney.

She oversees statewide advocacy and legal services for children and families seeking access to health coverage, work that blends individual representation with broader policy reform.

“She has dedicated over two decades to public interest law, clients’ rights, and empowerment and systemic reform,” the committee said.

“Her work improves individual lives while driving policy changes that benefit entire communities,” said her nominators. “Brynne’s leadership and vision reflect an unwavering commitment to justice, systemic reform, and community empowerment.”

The award, presented by the State Bar’s Public Interest Law Section, recognizes attorneys who demonstrate long-term commitment to public service, volunteerism, and community impact.
