
2/77 A Competitive bidding

There is nothing in the Code of Professional Responsibility which prohibits an attorney from responding, along with other selected attorneys, to an invitation to state what s/he would charge for rendering services for a government agency, so long as the factors listed in DR 2-106(B) are taken into account. It would be desirable for the attorney to indicate the number of hours of service contemplated by his/her bid, and the amount that would be charged hourly for additional time.
