
2/77 D Newspaper publication of article by attorney identifying him/her as such

An attorney may properly allow publication of newspaper or periodical articles on the new tax law (or other changes in the law) written by him/her, including a by-line or note identifying the author as a local attorney. It would be desirable to include a caution that the article is intended to be general and not advisory, and that questions about application to a reader's specific situation should be referred to the reader's legal or tax advisor.